Alabaster Collection

Alabaster stone categorizes as Onyx. It's translucent and the processed slabs get a matt surface which make an elegant look with back-lit effects and bring a peaceful delightful atmosphere to the area.

The background of the entire advertisement is a large, glowing wall of yellow and orange alabaster stone with intricate, wavy patterns. In the center, two dark red vases sit on a white rectangular pedestal. In the foreground, a dark wooden table holds an open book. A horizontal rectangular inset on the right side of the wall shows a close-up of the stone's texture.

Travertine Collection

Travertine is one of the most frequently used stones in modern architecture and is commonly seen as facade material, wall cladding, flooring and Versailles Pattern. Its powerful look with its steady veins gives your stone project a mighty vintage look. A look which reminds you of our ancestors kingdom. Powerful and vigorous.

Cream Blue Travertine

This Beauty is the only Cream Blue Travertine quarried in Persia.

It's a rather New Quarry and is starting to be a hot trend in Travertine market of the world.

Lets break the amazing simplicity of Travertine by adding some unexpected blue color to the combination, and yet still behold to the minimalistic presence of this natural beauty.
